Unpacking Human Trafficking is a summary of the laws of the 50 states relating to the display of human trafficking awareness posters in lodging facilities and the requirement that employees be trained to recognize and handle suspected incidents of human trafficking. Studies have shown that a large percentage of human trafficking, particularly sex trafficking, occurs in hotels, motels and other places of public lodging.

Unpacking Human Trafficking

In recent years an increasing number of states have passed laws requiring lodging facilities to display signage calling attention to the problem of human trafficking and alerting the public to the indications of trafficking, the hotline number to report suspicious activity and services for victims. These laws take various forms and present a sometimes-confusing array of requirements that present a challenge to owners and operators of lodging facilities seeking to satisfy them.

Similarly, a number of states have enacted legislation requiring lodging facilities to arrange for their employees to be trained to recognize signs of human trafficking and what actions to take in the event that such signs are observed. Other states do not mandate the training, but have made it available on a public agency website. Additional states are currently considering similar legislation. Thus, it is safe to predict that the number of states mandating such training will continue to grow.

In addition to state laws, there are various agency and municipal regulations, which are beyond the scope of this project. Interested parties should contact their local lodging and hotel association, chamber of commerce or governmental agencies familiar with regulations in local jurisdictions.

To help clarify the situation and facilitate legal compliance, ECPAT-USA, with the support of the American Hotel and Lodging Association Educational Foundation, unpacked these laws by preparing a survey of all the applicable state laws currently in effect. We will unpack the laws again by updating the survey on a semi-annual basis to keep up with the constantly changing laws.

Posters that comply with the various laws as well as additional resources for hospitality brands, management companies, and properties are available on ECPAT-USA's website at www.ecpatusa.org/hotel. For states that do not have a human trafficking awareness signage requirement ECPAT-USA's Standard Hotel Poster can be utilized.

SIGNAGE AND TRAINING LAWS EXPLAINED, BY STATE

Alabama

Signage Law

A bill relating to the posting of the National Human Trafficking Resource Center Hotline was signed into law on April 30, 2012, and took effect on January 1, 2013.¹ The law provides that any hotel that had been cited as a nuisance² under the Alabama Code must display a human trafficking awareness poster in a location(s) where it is clearly visible to the public, including the entrance of the hotel and any location where posters and notices are customarily posted. The law provides that hotels subject to this provision must print the posters from the website of The Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, The Public Service Commission or the Department of Labor or ask that the poster created by one of those agencies be mailed for the cost of printing and first class postage. The posters must be printed in English, Spanish and any other languages deemed appropriate by the Commissioner of Labor. The poster must be at least 8 ½ x 11 inches in size.

The law provides that the posters must state as follows:

If you or someone you know is being forced to engage in any activity and cannot leave -- whether it is commercial sex, housework, farm work, or any other activity – call the National Human Trafficking Resource Center Hotline at 1-888-373-7888 to access help and services.

- (1) Victims of human trafficking are protected under U.S. law.
- (2) The Toll-free Hotline is:
 - a. Available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.
 - b. Operated by a nonprofit, non governmental organization.
 - c. Anonymous and confidential.
 - d. Accessible in 170 languages.
 - e. Able to provide help, referral to services, training and general information.

A first violation of the statute will result in a warning. Thereafter, any violation will result in a fine of not more than $50.00.

Training Law

Alabama does not currently have a law addressing the issue of training employees of lodging facilities concerning human trafficking.

¹ 2012 Al. SB 50; Codified as § 13A-6-170 of the Alabama Code.

² As defined in Sections 13A-12-110 to 13A-12-122, inclusive, of the Alabama Code.

SIGNAGE AND TRAINING LAWS EXPLAINED, BY STATE

Alaska

Signage Law

Alaska does not currently have a statewide law requiring human trafficking awareness posters in hotels. The City of Anchorage, however, has a local ordinance, Chapter 16.90, section 16.90.050 of the Anchorage Municipal Code, which requires such posters to be displayed in a conspicuous location in all hotels and motels within the city limits. The ordinance specifies the size and contents of the posters. Lodging establishments can be fined $100 for every day that they fail to display the required sign.

SIGNAGE AND TRAINING LAWS EXPLAINED, BY STATE

Arkansas

Signage Law

Arkansas's law, section 12-19-102 of the Arkansas Code, requires that any hotel, motel or other establishment that has been cited as a public nuisance for prostitution under Section 20-27-401 of the Arkansas Code must post signage displaying information about the National Trafficking Resource Center Hotline. The posters, which must be at least 8 ½ x 11 inches, must be displayed in a conspicuous location near the entrance of the establishment or where notices and poster are customarily posted. The law includes a requirement that the posters be printed in English, Spanish, and any other language mandated by the federal Voting Rights Act.³

The law provides that the posters must state as follows:

If you or someone you know is being forced to engage in any activity and cannot leave – whether it is commercial sex, housework, farm work, or any other activity – call the National Human Trafficking Resource Center Hotline at 1-888-373-7888 to access help and services. Victims of human trafficking are protected under United States and Arkansas state law.

The Hotline is:

- Available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week
- Toll-free
- Operated by a non-profit, non-governmental organization
- Anonymous and confidential
- Accessible in 170 languages
- Able to provide help, referral to services, training, and general information.

The law provides that it is the obligation of the business owners and operators to obtain copies of the poster either by printing them from the websites of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, the Department of Labor or the Arkansas State Highway and Transportation Department or by requesting them from by mail for the cost of printing and first-class postage from one of those agencies. If the regulatory agency finds that a hotel or motel has failed to post the required information the owner or operator will initially receive a warning, but any additional violation will result in a fine not exceeding $500.

California

Signage Law

On September 27, 2018, Section 52.6 of the California Civil Code⁴ was amended to require all hotels, motels and bed and breakfast inns⁵ to post notices concerning slavery and human trafficking. The notices must be at least 8 1/2 by 11 inches and printed in no smaller than sixteen-point font. They must be displayed in a conspicuous manner near the entrance or other location where they are in clear view to the public and employees.

The law provides that posters must state as follows:

If you or someone you know is being forced to engage in any activity and cannot leave – whether it is commercial sex, housework, farm work, construction, factory, retail, or restaurant work, or any activity – text 233-733 (Be Free) or call the National Human Trafficking Hotline at 1-888-373-7888 or the California Coalition to Abolish Slavery and Trafficking (CAST) at 1-888-KEY-2-Fre(EDOM) or 1-888-539-2373 to access help and services.

Victims of slavery and human trafficking are protected under United States and California law.

The hotlines are:

- Available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.
- Toll-free.
- Operated by nonprofit, nongovernmental organizations.
- Anonymous and confidential.
- Accessible in more than 160 languages.
- Able to provide help, referral to services, training, and general information.

The law mandates that the posters be printed in English, Spanish and one additional language that is widely spoken in the county where the lodging establishment is located and for which translation is required by the federal Voting Rights Act. Failure to comply with this law can result in a civil penalty of $500 for the first violation and $1,000 for each subsequent violation.

Training Law

Effective January 1, 2019, section 12950.3 of the California Government Code⁶ requires that by January 20, 2020, every hotel and motel must provide at least twenty minutes of human trafficking awareness training for every employee who is likely to come into contact with victims of human trafficking.⁷ By January 1, 2020, employers must provide human trafficking awareness training to each employee who is likely to come in contact with a victim of human trafficking every two years and within six months of the commencement of their employment.

The law specifies that the training must include:

1. The definition of human trafficking and commercial exploitation of children,
2. Guidance on how to identify individuals at risk for trafficking,
3. Differences between labor and sex trafficking, specific to the hotel sector,
4. Guidance on the role of hospitality employees in reporting and responding to this issue, and
5. The contact information for appropriate agencies, including the National Human Trafficking Hotline toll-free number and text line, and the telephone number of the local law enforcement agency. Bed and breakfast establishments are not covered by this law. Furthermore, an employee's failure to report an incident of human trafficking is not, by itself, a basis for a finding of liability to a victim.

⁴ 2018 Cal AB 2034.

⁵ As defined in subdivision (b) of Section 24045.12 of the Business and Professional Code, not including personal residences.

⁶ Senate Bill (SB) 970.

⁷ "An employee who is likely to interact or come into contact with victims of human trafficking" includes, but is not limited to, an employee who has reoccurring interactions with the public, including, but not limited to, an employee who works in a reception area, performs housekeeping duties, help customers in moving their possession, or drives customers." Colorado

Signage Law

Colorado does not currently have a law concerning human trafficking awareness signage in lodging facilities.

Training Law

Colorado does not currently have a law addressing the issue of training employees of lodging facilities about human trafficking.

There is, however, a provision in the mandate of a council created in the Colorado Department of Public Safety mandating the development of, among other things, training standards and curricula for, among others, people who work in places where human trafficking victims are likely to appear. (C.R.S. 18-3-505 [e]).

Connecticut

Signage Law

Connecticut General Statutes sections 54-234a and 54-222 require an operator of a hotel, motel, inn or similar lodging to post in plain view in a conspicuous location where labor and services are provided or performed, a notice concerning services available to victims of human trafficking. Such notice shall indicate that any person who is forced to engage in any activity and who cannot leave may contact a state or federal anti-trafficking hotline, and shall indicate the toll-free telephone numbers for such hotlines. The law does not specify the exact text or size of the posters. Failure to display the required notice will result in a $100 fine for the first offense and a $250 fine for any subsequent offense. (54-234a[c]).

Training Law

Section 44-5 of Connecticut's General Statutes provides that "[t]he operator of each hotel, motel, inn or similar lodging shall ensure that each employee... receive training at the time of hire on the (1) recognition of potential victims of human trafficking, and (2) activities commonly associated with human trafficking." Lodging establishment operators must also conduct ongoing awareness campaigns for employees on the activities commonly associated with human trafficking. Operators of lodging facilities were required to certify by October 17, 2017, and annually thereafter that every employee has received the required training and keep such records in the employee's personnel file.

Georgia

Signage Law

Georgia law mandates that hotels, inns and other establishments that offer overnight accommodations to the public must post a notice providing information on how to contact the National Human Trafficking Hotline and the Statewide Georgia Hotline for Domestic Minor Trafficking.⁹ The notice must be in English, Spanish and any other language deemed appropriate by the Georgia Bureau of Investigations. The notice must be at least 8 ½ x 11 inches and printed in not less than sixteen-point font. Notices must be displayed in every public restroom and in a conspicuous location near the public entrance or in another location in clear view of the public and employees where notices are customarily posted.

The law provides that signage must state as follows:

Are you or someone you know being sold for sex or made/forced to work for little or no pay and cannot leave? Call the National Human Trafficking Resource Center at 1-888-373-7888 or the Statewide Georgia Hotline for Domestic Minor Trafficking at 1-844-842-3678 for help. All victims of slavery and human trafficking have rights and are protected by international, federal and state law.

The hotline is:

- (1) Anonymous and confidential;
- (2) Available 24 hours a day, seven days a week;
- (3) Able to provide help, referral to services, training, and general information;
- (4) Accessible in 170 languages;
- (5) Operated by a nonprofit, non governmental organization; and
- (6) Toll free.

Model notices are available on the Georgia Bureau of Investigations' website.¹⁰ Failure to comply with the statute, following a thirty-day period after receipt of a notice to correct a violation, constitutes a misdemeanor and can result in a fine of up to $500. Upon a second or subsequent conviction, the offense is elevated to an aggravated misdemeanor subjecting the lodging owner to up to a $5,000 fine.

Minnesota

Signage Law

Minnesota law, effective August 1, 2018, requires all hotel and motel establishments to display a poster, written or approved by the Commissioner of Health, that contains information explaining how to recognize signs of sex trafficking and how to respond effectively when signs are observed. The posters must be displayed in a place readily accessible to all employees. The law does not include any punishment for failure to comply.²⁶ The law does not specify the size or text of the posters.

Training Law

Minnesota law requires the Commissioner of Health to work with the state hotel and lodging association to approve an educational training program by November 1, 2018.²⁷ The training program must focus on the accurate and prompt identification and reporting of, and response to, suspected sex trafficking. At a minimum, it is required to address: what sex trafficking is in order to raise awareness; how to recognize potential victims; how to identify activities commonly associate with sex trafficking; and effective responses to trafficking situations, including how to report suspected sex traffickers to the proper law enforcement officials.

The law provides that, upon completion and approval of the training program, every lodging establishment in the state is required to ensure that every employee is trained within ninety days of hiring or within one hundred and twenty days of August 1, 2018, and annually thereafter. The operator of every lodging facility is required to certify annually that every employee has received the required training. In addition, lodging operators have an obligation to conduct an ongoing awareness campaign for employees addressing the required components of the training. Any operator who fails to comply with the training requirement will, upon the first violation, be given six months to comply with an order issued by the Health Commissioner.²⁸ The law provides that hotel operators and employees who act in good faith are immune from liability in any civil action for reporting suspected sex trafficking activity.²⁹

Missouri

Signage Law

In a law that took effect on August 28, 2018, the Missouri Department of Public Safety was tasked to create a human trafficking awareness poster by January 1, 2019.³⁰ The law provides that commencing on March 1, 2019, requires lodging facilities that have been declared a public nuisance due to prostitution activity must display the poster in a conspicuous place in or near the property's bathrooms or entrance.

The poster must be at least 8 ½ x 11 inches in size and must contain a statement substantially similar to the following:

If you or someone you know is being forced to engage in any activity and cannot leave – whether it is commercial sex, housework, farm work, or any other activity – call the National Human Trafficking Resource Center Hotline at 1-888-373-7888 or text 233733 (BEFREE) or visit the following website: www.traffickingresourcecenter.org to access help and services. Victims of human trafficking are protected under U.S. and Missouri law.

The toll-free hotline is:

- Available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week
- Operated by a non-profit, non-governmental organization
- Anonymous and confidential
- Accessible in 170 languages
- Able to provide help, referral to services, training, and general information.

Additional information about other hotlines providing assistance to human trafficking victims may also be included. The poster must be printed in English, Spanish and any other language required for voting material under the federal Voting Rights Act. Failure to comply with the law can result in a warning for the first violation and charges of an infraction for any subsequent violation.

New Jersey

Signage Law

New Jersey's Human Trafficking Prevention, Protection and Treatment Act, P.L. 2013 c. 51, created a Commission on Human Trafficking and gave the Commission the duty to, among other things, "[d]evelop mechanisms to promote public awareness of human trafficking, including promotion of the national, 24-hour toll-free hotline telephone service on human trafficking...and the promotion of training courses and other educational materials for use by persons...to undergo training on the handling of and response procedures for suspected human trafficking." While the statute does not address the display of posters in a lodging facility, the Commission has worked with the Office of the Attorney General's Department of Law and Safety to create human trafficking awareness posters that are available on the Department's website that may be displayed in lodging facilities.³⁴ The posters are required to include a telephone number for a toll-free 24-hour a day hotline for human trafficking. The Attorney General is mandated by law to "coordinate the State's involvement with the national, 24-hour toll-free hotline telephone service on human trafficking," which is operating pursuant to federal law.³⁴ However, the posters currently available on the Attorney General's website display only the New Jersey hotline number, 855-END-NJ-HT (855-363-6548).

While the display of human trafficking awareness posters in public locations is voluntary, such display in back-of-the-house areas accessible to employees, such as locker rooms and break rooms, is mandatory. The Department of Community Affairs, in consultation with the Commission on Human Trafficking, is mandated to develop a training program for lodging facility employees (discussed below) and, as part of that training program, the Department enacted a regulation that requires a specific information sheet, available in English and Spanish, on reporting suspected human trafficking be posted in conspicuous and visible locations in areas accessed by hotel employees including, but not limited to, laundry rooms and employee break rooms.³⁵

Training Law

New Jersey law requires the Department of Community Affairs and the Commission on Human Trafficking to create and provide a one-time training course on "the handling and response procedures of suspected human trafficking activities for owners, operators, and staff of hotels and motels."³⁶ Verifiable completion of the course by required staff "shall be a condition of issuance, maintenance, or renewal" of any license, certificate, or permit. The training course must be reviewed every two years and modified as required. Further, the Department of Community Affairs must oversee and ensure that "all hotel and motel owners, operators, and required staff attend [a] one-time training course... within six months of the first day of ownership, operation, or employment for all new owners, operators and required staff."³⁶

The regulations adopted by the Department of Community Affairs pursuant to this mandate specify that the employees to be trained are: hotel management, front desk and registration employees, janitorial and housekeeping staff and hotel security staff. As part of the training the Department has provided a video on recognizing and reporting suspected human trafficking in English and Spanish. All the specified employees must view the video. The lodging facility is required to maintain a list of the current employees and the date on which they viewed the video and a certificate must be filed with the Department by the owner or manager stating that the employees have viewed the video and that the list of employees and the dates of viewing has been maintained and is available for inspection.³⁵

New Mexico

Signage Law

New Mexico passed legislation (HB 181) that requires all employers subject to the Minimum Wage Act to display a notice poster beginning on July 1, 2014.³⁷ No penalties for failure to display the poster are specified. The poster must be at least 8 ½ x 11 inches. It must be in English, Spanish, and “any other written language where ten percent or more of the workers or users” of the facility speak that language, with the portions in each language equal in size. The poster must be displayed in a conspicuous location visible to both employees and the public. The law mandates the inclusion of the following text:

NOTICE ON HUMAN TRAFFICKING: OBTAINING FORCED LABOR OR SERVICES IS A CRIME UNDER NEW MEXICO AND FEDERAL LAW. IF YOU OR SOMEONE YOU KNOW IS A VICTIM OF THIS CRIME, CONTACT THE FOLLOWING: IN NEW MEXICO, CALL OR TEXT 505-GET-FREE (505-438-3733); OR CALL THE NATIONAL HUMAN TRAFFICKING RESOURCE CENTER HOTLINE TOLL-FREE AT 1-888-373-7888 FOR HELP. YOU MAY ALSO SEND THE TEXT “HELP” OR “INFO” TO BEFREE (233733). YOU MAY REMAIN ANONYMOUS, AND YOUR CALL OR TEXT IS CONFIDENTIAL.

The Labor Relations Division of the Workforce Solutions Department must provide a version of the notice, though employers may use their own version as long as it meets the requirements of the statute. Signage Law

A bill to add section 206(f) to Chapter 190 of the General Business Law was signed into law on August 15, 2018, and took effect on October 14, 2018. The law provides that every keeper of a lodging facility must display human trafficking “information cards” in public restrooms, guestrooms, and near public entrances and other conspicuous places.³⁹ The cards must contain only information concerning services for human trafficking victims and must prominently include the National Human Trafficking Hotline telephone number. The law does not require any specific text, other than the hotline number, nor does it specify size or font. The content of the cards may be developed by the Office of Temporary and Disability Assistance (OTDA), in consultation with the New York State Interagency Task Force on Human Trafficking, the United States Department of Homeland Security, or the lodging facility. There are no penalties for failure to abide by the law.

The law further provides that lodging facilities may, on a voluntary basis, also display a human trafficking awareness notice. The OTDA, in consultation with the New York State Interagency Task Force on Human Trafficking, must provide the notice. Information cards and notices provided by the OTDA are available at <http://otda.ny.gov/programs/bria/trafficking.asp>.

Training Law

New York does not currently have a law addressing the issue of training employees of lodging facilities concerning human trafficking. A bill (A 6834-B) passed the Assembly on April 25, 2018, but did not reach a vote in the Senate and would have to be reintroduced in 2019 to proceed.⁴⁰ The proposed legislation would amend Chapter 190 of the General Business Law by adding section 205, and would mandate training for all employees likely to come into contact with human trafficking victims.

Pennsylvania

Signage Law

Pennsylvania's Human Trafficking Center Resource Center Act of 2012 requires certain establishments, including any hotel found to be a drug-related or common nuisance, to display human trafficking awareness posters.⁴⁴ The posters must contain information about the National Human Trafficking Resource Center Hotline and state that victims of human trafficking are protected under state and federal law. Furthermore, the posters must be at least 8 ½ x 11 inches and must be printed in English, Spanish, and any other language mandated by the Voting Rights Act in the relevant county. Penalties for failure to properly post such signs begin with a fine of no more than $100 and increase with any additional violations, up to a misdemeanor and a fine of up to $500.

Training Law

Pennsylvania does not currently have a law addressing the issue of training employees of lodging facilities concerning human trafficking. However, subject to availability of funds, grants are to be made available to state and local government and nongovernmental agencies to develop or expand programs geared toward prevention of human trafficking, including increasing public awareness.⁴⁵

Rhode Island

Signage Law

In 2017, Rhode Island enacted the Uniform Act on the Prevention and Remedies for Human Trafficking, which includes a mandate to display human trafficking awareness posters, but does not expressly mention lodging facilities.⁴⁶ The law requires certain private business to display a sign with the state and national hotline and resource center information in a conspicuous location, including: 1) Strip clubs and other “sexually-oriented” business; 2) Business entities that have been found to be a nuisance due to prostitution; 3) Job recruitment centers, 4) Hospitals; and 5) Emergency-care providers. Therefore, any lodging facility that had been adjudicated a nuisance, due to prostitution activity is covered by the law. The signs are also required in every transportation center, rest area and welcome center. The law does not specify the size or exact text of the posters. The penalty for knowingly failing to comply with the law is $300 per violation.

Training Law

Rhode Island does not currently have a law addressing the issue of training employees of lodging facilities concerning human trafficking. South Carolina

Signage Law

South Carolina requires all lodging facilities to display human trafficking awareness posters containing specific language. The law provides that such posters must be displayed at every airport, train station, bus station, rest area, and truck stop, as well as the following establishments: 1) any establishment which has been declared a nuisance for prostitution, 2) any adult business, including a nightclub, bar, restaurant or similar establishment in which a person appears in a state of sexually explicit nudity, 3) businesses and establishments that offer massage or bodywork services by any person not licensed, 4) emergency rooms, 5) urgent care centers, 6) hotel, motel, room or accommodation furnished to transients for which fees are charged, and 7) all agricultural labor contractors and agricultural labor transporters.

The posters must state as follows:

If you or someone you know is being forced to engage in any activity and cannot leave, whether it is commercial sex, housework, farm work, or any other activity, call the National Human Trafficking Resource Center Hotline at 1-888-373-7888 to access help and services. Victims of human trafficking are protected under federal law and the laws of South Carolina. The hotline is:

- (1) available twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week;
- (2) operated by a nonprofit, non governmental organization;
- (3) anonymous and confidential;
- (4) accessible in one hundred seventy languages;
- (5) able to provide help, referral to services, training, and general information.

The posters must be no smaller than 8 ½ x 11 inches and be printed in both English and Spanish on the same poster. The notices must be posted in each public restroom of the business or establishment and in a prominent location conspicuous to the public at the entrance of the establishment where posters and notices are customarily posted.

The law mandates several state agencies to provide the required posters by making them available for downloading from their websites. The businesses are required to download the posters and post them in not less than sixteen point font. The penalty for failure to properly post such notice is a written warning for the first violation and a $50 fine for each subsequent violation.⁴⁸
