A May 2022 survey conducted by Morning Consult and commissioned by the American Hotel & Lodging Association (AHLA) found 69% of Americans are planning to travel this summer, and 60% are likely to take more vacations this year than in 2020-21. But new concerns over gas prices and inflation are impacting travel plans more than COVID.

69% OF AMERICANS ARE LIKELY TO TRAVEL OVERNIGHT THIS SUMMER

- 68% have a greater appreciation for travel post-pandemic
- 57% are likely to take a family vacation this summer
- 46% are likely to travel overnight for a family event this summer

BUT CONCERNS OVER GAS PRICES AND INFLATION ARE IMPACTING TRAVEL PLANS MORE THAN COVID

HOW MUCH OF A CONSIDERATION, IF ANY, ARE THE FOLLOWING IN DECIDING WHETHER TO TRAVEL IN THE NEXT THREE MONTHS?

(% TOTAL “A CONSIDERATION”)

- 90% gas prices
- 90% inflation
- 78% COVID-19 rates

DUE TO CURRENT GAS PRICES:

- 57% are likely to take fewer trips
- 54% are likely to take shorter trips
- 44% are likely to postpone trips
- 33% are likely to cancel with no plans to reschedule

Morning Consult Survey Methodology: This poll was conducted by Morning Consult on behalf of AHLA. The survey was conducted May 18-22, 2022, among a national sample of 2,210 adults. The interviews were conducted online, and the data was weighted to approximate a target sample of adults based on age, gender, educational attainment, race, and region. Results have a margin of error of plus or minus 2.0 percentage points.
